National Weather Service
Wilmington, NC

Outlook Period: January 28-30, 2017
Time Issued: 10 AM , January 27, 2017

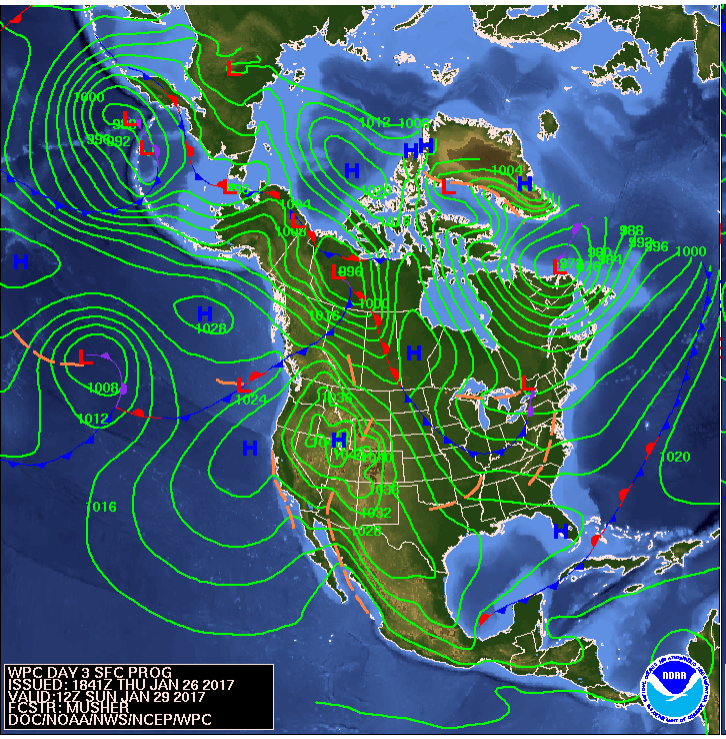
Prepared by: Robert J DiGiorgi

A Wintry Chill will continue into next week

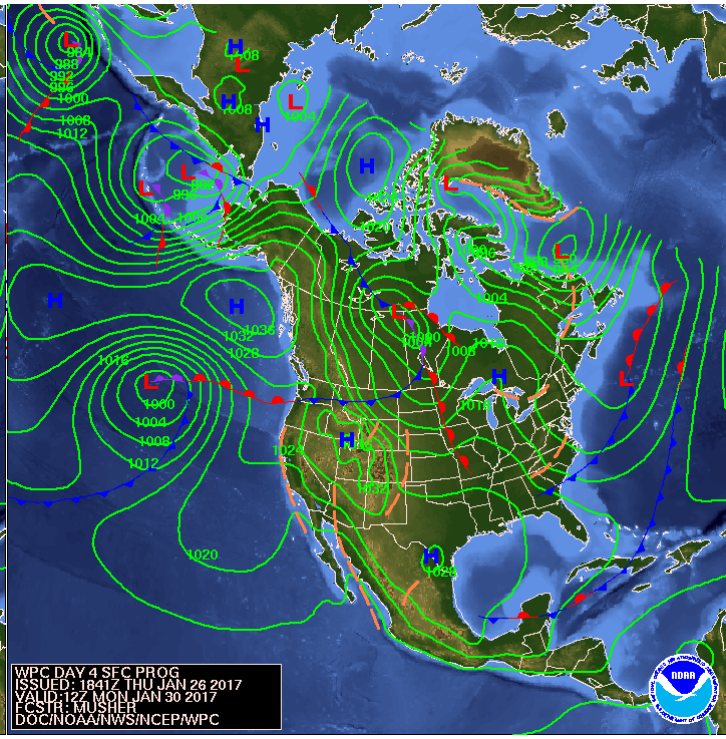
Overview: Chilly high pressure will dominate the weekend weather. A couple cold fronts will move through the area to reinforce the cool airmass. One such front late Sunday night and Monday morning may bring a brief shower or even a snow flurry to portions of the area, otherwise it will be dry through the outlook period.

Impacts: Lows will be in the 30s, highs in the 50s. Turning colder Monday with highs in the 40s and lows Monday night mainly in the 20s.

Early Weekend



Late Weekend/Monday



For the latest updates, please visit our website and social media outlets:

www.weather.gov/ilm fb.com/nwswilmingtonnc @NWSWilmingtonNC