A weak upper-level disturbance interacting with a warm and humid airmass produced clusters of strong to severe thunderstorms across central Illinois on June 22nd. Due to copious amounts of moisture in the environment and the slow movement of the storms, a few locations picked up between 2.00 and 3.00 inches of rainfall in a short amount of time. As a result, flash flooding occurred in a large part of east central Illinois. In addition, a few of the cells produced hail as large as quarters in Champaign and Logan counties.

Several water rescues were made for stranded motorists in and near Flora. In the northwest part of the county from Iola to Hord all roads were closed, including U.S. Highway 45. Due to copious amounts of moisture in the environment and the slow movement of the storms, portions of Clay County picked up as much as 4 to 6 inches of rain in a short amount of time. As a result, significant flash flooding occurred in Flora as well as parts of rural Clay County and adjoining counties in southeast Illinois. Additional strong to severe thunderstorms developed further north ahead of an advancing cold front by mid to late afternoon on June 23rd. These storms impacted locations from the Peoria area northward with strong winds and large hail.
