

Weather Overview

June 30, 2025
3:36 PM

Updated: June 30, 2025

Tuesday, Jul 1

Wednesday, Jul 2

Thursday, Jul 3

Friday, Jul 4

Saturday, Jul 5

Sunday, Jul 6

Numerous thunderstorms, favoring the higher terrain. Storms may produce strong outflow wind gusts and small hail.

High risk of burn scar flash flooding with a low risk over low-lying and poorly drained areas of eastern NM.

Numerous thunderstorms, favoring the higher terrain. Storms may produce strong outflow wind gusts and small hail.

High risk of burn scar flash flooding, with a minor risk over low-lying and poorly drained areas.

Numerous thunderstorms, favoring the higher terrain. Storms may produce large hail and damaging wind gusts in central and western NM.

Moderate to high risk of burn scar flash flooding, with a minor risk over low-lying and poorly drained areas.

Isolated thunderstorms, favoring the high terrain. Low risk of burn scar flash flooding.

Isolated thunderstorms, favoring the high terrain. Low risk of burn scar flash flooding.

Moderate heat risk in the lower elevations of central NM.

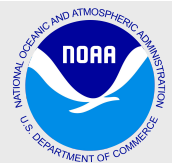

Scattered thunderstorms, favoring the high terrain. Storms may produce strong outflow wind gusts and small hail.

Moderate risk of burn scar flash flooding.

Note: Dangerous cloud-to-ground lightning can be expected from any thunderstorm.

This product is for situational awareness and intended to be used alongside more detailed products at <http://weather.gov/abq>

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce

Potential Impact Levels

No Impacts

Minor

Moderate

Major

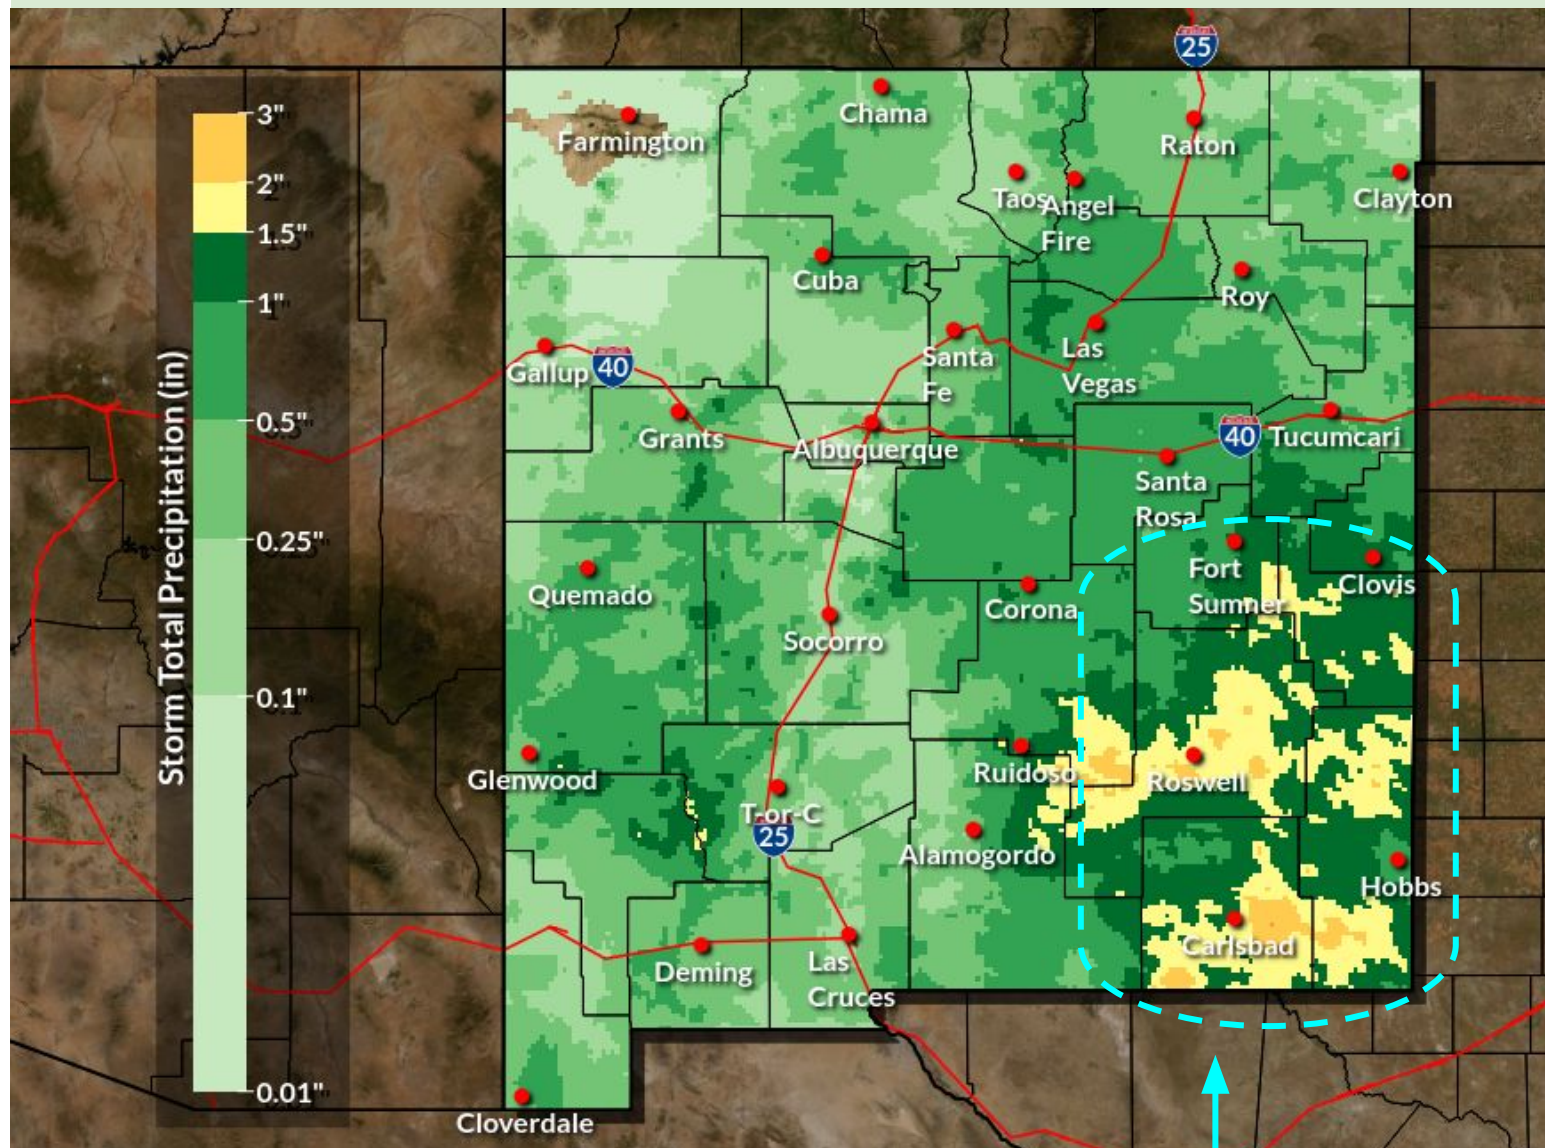

Extreme

NOAA/National Weather Service
Albuquerque, NM

Most Likely Rainfall (in)

Monday Night - Thursday Afternoon

10% chance of 4"+

Key Impacts:

- High Risk of Flash Flooding over recent burn scars each afternoon through Thursday
- Flash Flood Watch for portions of central and eastern NM along the central mountain chain, including the Ruidoso and Hermits Peak Calf Canyon burn scars through Midnight.
- Low risk of off-scar flash flooding each day this week with southeastern NM the most likely area to see impacts due to recent rainfall.
- Outlook: Widespread storms each afternoon through Thursday. Precipitation chances trend down Friday and Saturday, then increase again Sunday.