The proposal had first been voted on in February 1968, when the vote was 3 to 1 in favor, then reduced to 2 to 1 vote in favor, until that time it remained a 2 to 1 vote.

The proposal would have included a name change to Anamosa Junior College.

The local here would be the first formal at any Iowa college.

Dr. Fox said the school's new name will be the key to its long-term development. But, in the future, there will be a process group of faculty and students to determine the name of the local.

In a classroom session, officials stated that the local will take better advantage of the resources available to it.

He said there will also be advantages that come from the school being a community college.

"Anamosa will have full-time classes, degrees and graduate classes that are reasonably priced," Fox said. "The name Anamosa will be one of the resources available to it.

However, the school is not interested in becoming a four-year college.

The vote was 1,257 in favor and 869 voted in favor.

1,257 voted against the measure, meaning for the second vote, Anamosa would receive overwhelming approval.

The money would have been used to finance construction in a new building, a new dormitory, to name a few.

The money would have been used for the construction of a new dormitory in the Anamosa area of the school.
