

Surprise for Teacher

Children at Wilkins school in Marion would not be able to see their teacher in her wedding dress so they made her one of tissue paper. Miss Sandy Broad, 1615 Park Town Court NE, was surprised Thursday at a shower given by her first-grade pupils at the school. She will be married June 8 to Alan Kuebler, 225 Twenty-ninth street drive SE. Miss Broad received a portable mixer from her students.

Putting the finishing touches on Miss Broad's tissue paper "wedding dress" are four of her students at Wilkins school. They are, David Verhille, making sure the shoe fits; Michael Tucker, adjusting a sleeve, and Ranae Humphrey, left, and Peggy Halverson, discussing the problems of how to attach the "veil".

Miss Heaverlo Becomes Bride

MRS. GLOWACKI

MASONVILLE — The marriage of Miss Barbara Stefanie Heaverlo, 1628 Park Towne Place NE, Cedar Rapids, and Stephen Stanley Glowacki, 301 Thirty-first street drive SE, Cedar Rapids, took place Saturday at 1 in Immaculate Conception Catholic church. The Rev. Michael J. O'Sullivan officiated. A reception for 300 guests was given at the Pinicon hotel, Independence.

Parents of the bridal couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heaverlo of Masonville and Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Glowacki of Clinton.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of karate featuring a chapel-length train. A forward cluster of daisies held her bouffant veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Mary Seely of Cedar Rapids was maid of honor and Mrs. James Holmes, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmatron. Their gowns of pink chiffon were accented with white daisy trim and their flowers were pink daisies and pink and white carnations.

Douglas Cole was best man and Raymond Glowacki, brother of the bridegroom, groomsmen. Richard Heaverlo of Cedar Rapids and Donald Howard ushered.

The bride is employed by Collins Radio Co.; her husband by Hy Vee food stores, both in Cedar Rapids. On return from a wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells, the newlyweds will reside at the Thirty-first street drive address.

Diana Hyland guest stars as a girl marked for death on THE FBI — Tonight at 7 o'clock on Channel 9 in COLOR.

Ignoring Medicine Directions Can Prolong Illness and Delay Recovery

NEW YORK — Mothers in Colonial America who treated family illnesses had to rely on such directions as a "copious draft" of tonic or a "pinch" of powder. Obviously, the amount given varied every time.

Today's mother has no such problem, and yet there are occasions when children and adults deliberately get too much or too little medicine. Doctors call it a therapeutic overdose or underdose.

The Council on Family Health, a non-profit organization sponsored as a public service by members of the drug industry to promote home safety and family health, says that a patient can be harmed, or recovery can be delayed considerably, by failure to follow carefully the directions on labels or instructions from the doctor.

Modern medicines are potent and have been tested scientifically to determine how much should be taken and how frequently. A mother never should substitute her judgment for that of the doctor or the label in taking or giving medicine.

Members of primitive societies may be forgiven for not following directions. According to doctors who have treated them, they are quite likely to take the entire amount of medicine at one time, instead of at stated intervals, on the theory that if a little is good, a lot is better and they will get well that much faster.

The Colonial homemaker had no choice but to use her own judgment in measuring medicines. Most of the medicines were concocted at home according to old family formulas. None was scientifically tested. Dosing was a matter of guesswork.

Measurements for the early American homemaker included such dosages as a "cup" of catnip, elderblossom or peppermint leaf tea; a "copious draft" of tonic brewed from green celadine, a "little" pipissewa, green alder and white henna; a "bag" of tansy or asafetida; a "pinch" of powder; a "capful" of medication; a "few cloves" of garlic; a "handful," "mouthful," "goodly portion," "generous helping," "batch," "mess," and "nip."

The guesswork has been taken out of medicine doses for today's homemaker and her family. The explicit directions are on the label. Exact instructions are given by the doctor. The label should be read three times, and directions followed to the letter.

In addition, the twentieth century homemaker has an array of measuring spoons, measuring cups with graduated markings, and medicine droppers. When using a graduated measuring cup, hold it at eye level to insure accuracy. If measuring drops, count aloud.

FOR A WINE RACK
The space above a pass-through between kitchen and dining room, or kitchen and family room, may be just the place for a wine rack. And the pass-through counter can do double duty by also serving for wine-opening chores.

The Smart Set David Niven's Son To Marry in July

By Suzy Knickerbocker
NEW YORK — The wedding of the summer will take place on July 6 at half past four o'clock when Fernanda Wanamaker Wetherill of the fine old Philadelphia family marries James Graham Niven, son of that fascinating actor, David Niven, at the First Presbyterian church in Southampton.

SUZY

There will be a reception following at Westerly, the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Donald Leas, jr. on Ox Pasture road. The bride-to-be is blonde and beautiful and Jamie is just about as cute as dear old dad.

Huntington Hartford, the grocery chain millionaire, is pushing to be a restaurateur come summer. Hunt, along with Arnold Stein (he runs Harlow's and don't you forget it), received a lease from the city to open the Hartford cafe at the River's Edge (but what do they call it for short?) on Sixty-third street and the East River. Opening is scheduled for July 1.

Hunt and Arnold also are principals in The Boat, a night club and restaurant complex on the water at the same Sixty-third street and East river location, expected to open in August. The Boat is the former Lake Erie excursion cruise ship, Erie Queen. You'll want to know and there'll be dining and dancing and jazz combos — and even lunch in the Windjammer room. Free parking, too. Hunt thinks of everything. If Arnold doesn't.

The newlywed Russell Firestones, she's the former Myrna Houghton of Miami, have gone off on Russell's yacht, Flameless, for a short cruise in the Bahamas. Then it's off to Hawaii and the Far East for more and more honeymooning. They'll be back in a few months. Russell is the tire and rubber heir which makes it nice for everyone, doesn't it?

The "Minucode" party in the fairly elegant confines of the old Russian embassy (now the center for inter-American relations) was unusual to say the very least. Some of the town's top popinjays turned up to be photographed in color and recorded in stereophonic sound for posterity — or at least for an environmental movie that will be shown this week — if we can wait.

The whole thing was artist Marta Minujin's bag and helping her fill it were such as Cathy MacCauley, sometimes called the "Now Girl", in a brown fringed Indian costume complete with head-band and feathers — sort of the Twiggy-Penelope Tree Indian look — if you stretch a point. There were some awkward vinyl

Father-Daughter Duet at Coe Senior's Recital

JANE BERTENSEN

Jane Bertensen, senior music student at Coe, will be joined by her father, Arnold Bertensen of Clinton, when she presents her senior voice recital Wednesday at 8 in the Daehler-Kitchin auditorium at Coe. The program will be open to the public without charge.

Miss Bertensen also will be assisted by Tina Jackson, clarinetist from Marion, and James Stevenson, trumpeter from Cedar Rapids. She will be accompanied by Miss Alma Turechek, professor of music at Coe.

Miss Bertensen and her father, a tenor, will present a duet from Verdi's "Il Trovatore".

She will open her recital with a selection from Handel's "Samson" and an aria from Hayden's "The Creation". The recital also will include two selections by Gustav Mahler, "Kindertotenlieder" and "Lieder eines fahrenden Gesellen". Miss Bertensen will close her recital with "Ain't it a Pretty Night" by Carlisle Floyd, "O Lady Moon" by Alan Hovhanes and "Bessie Bobtail" and "I Hear an Army" by Samuel Barber.

Carol Scott To Be Married on June 6

BROOKLYN — The marriage of Miss Carol Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Scott, to Phillip L. Abold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Abold of Baldwinville, N.Y., will take place June 6 at the Air Force academy chapel at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Miss Scott attended the University of Iowa and is employed by Reinsurance Co., Grinnell. Her fiancé will graduate in June from the Air Force academy.

BABY YOUR SKIN

More and more Moms are discovering that keeping their own skin baby soft and smooth is as easy as borrowing baby's oil, powder, cream, lotion and petroleum jelly. The oil whisks away makeup with ease. The powder after bath or shower keeps Mom cool and fresh through busiest days.
