...Spring Thaw Update...

Overall the slow thaw process of March continues with some runoff reaching into the southern valley with Wahpeton and Abercrombie rising to around action stage. Our current cool down will stall the thaw process through the weekend. Next week the temperatures are set to continue the gradual thaw with daytime highs above freezing and overnight lows below freezing. This will allow the southern basin to continue to see snowmelt runoff begin to reach the river system with slowly rising streams and rivers.
