- Sunny, mild, and dry weather is expected today through Wednesday, with highs warming into the upper 70s to mid 80s.
- A cold front will sweep into the region Wednesday evening/night, bringing scattered to numerous (40-60%) showers and storms into the area
- A few of these storms could be strong to potentially marginally severe, with gusty winds being the main threat with the strongest activity.
- A cooler, drier air mass will move into the area late this week. Localized, elevated fire weather concerns may exist on Friday.