

National Weather Service

Wilmington, NC

Outlook Period: Mon. Apr. 19th – Fri. Apr. 23rd, 2021
Time Issued: 10 AM, Mon. April 19th, 2021

Prepared by: NWS Wilmington NC
Forecaster #: 910-762-4289

Overview: A weak disturbance will bring a chance of isolated rain showers tonight and late tomorrow. A cold front will approach the area from the west on Wed., bringing gusty winds and ushering in cooler and much drier air for the end of the week.

Primary Threats:

- Small Craft Advisory conditions likely on Wed. night.
- Dry weather is expected on Thu. and Fri. Winds will remain relatively light (below 15 mph) during this period, but RH will drop to as low as 20%.

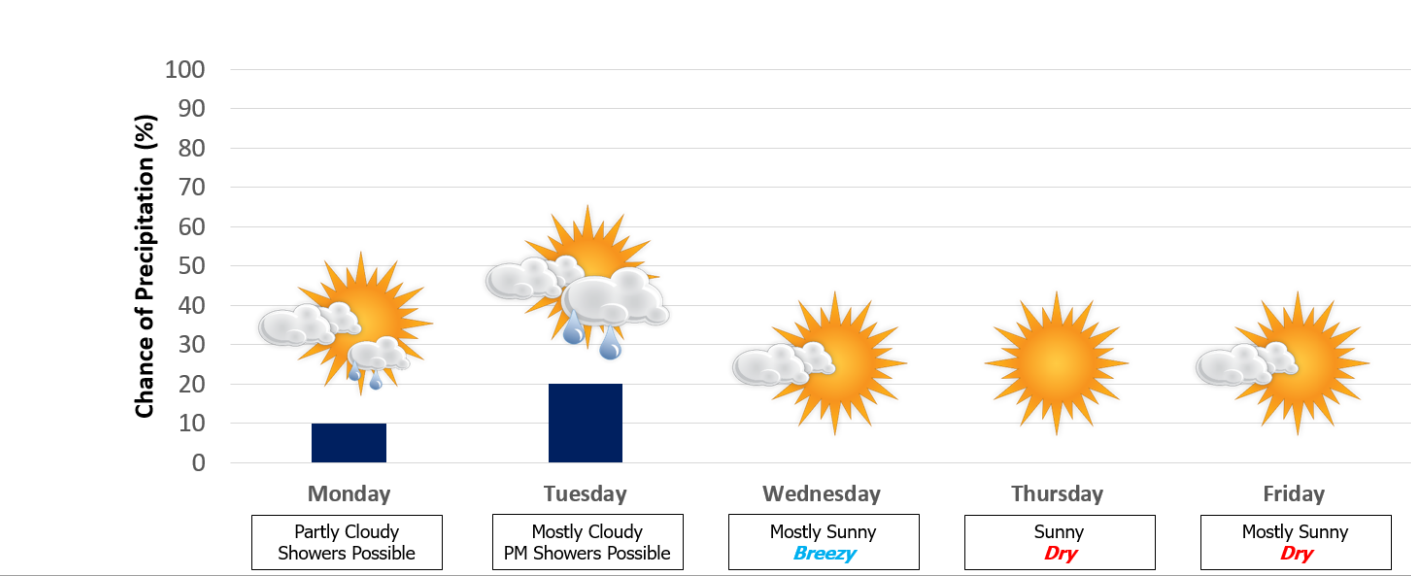

Impacts:

- Difficult and hazardous marine navigation for small craft likely on Wed. night.

Confidence:

- Small Craft Advisory conditions: High
- Forecast: High

	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday
High Temp	Upper 70s	Mid 70s	Upper 70s	Mid 60s	Around 70s
Morning Low		Upper 40s	Mid 50s	Around 40	Around 40

For the latest updates, please visit our website and social media outlets:

National Weather Service Wilmington, NC

Outlook Period: Mon. Apr. 19th – Fri. Apr. 23rd, 2021
Time Issued: 10 AM, Mon. April 19th, 2021

Prepared by: NWS Wilmington NC
Forecaster #: 910-762-4289

Small Craft Conditions Likely on Wednesday Night

Primary Threats:

- Winds will increase to around 20-25 knots ahead of a cold front on Wed.
- Gusts over the nearshore waters are likely to exceed 25 knots Wed. night.

Impacts

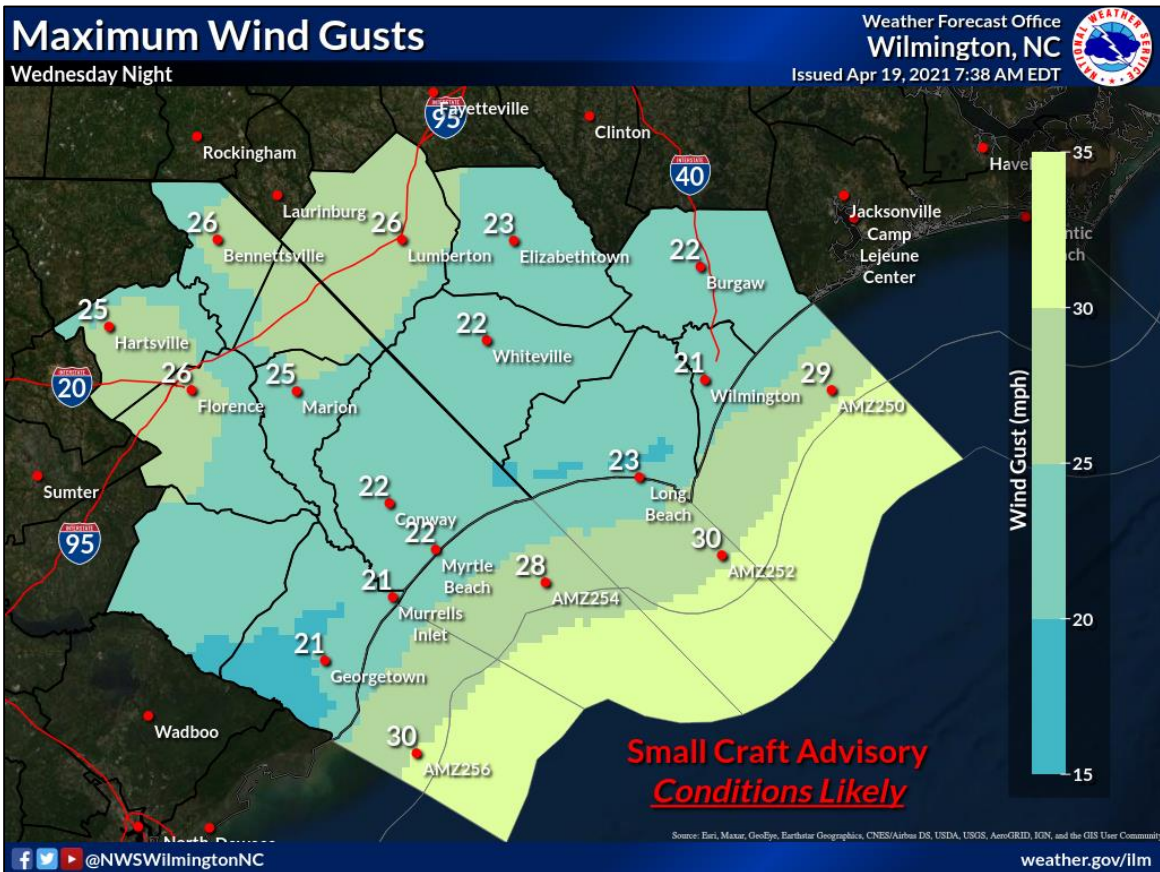

- Conditions may lead to difficult or hazardous navigation for small craft.

Timing:

- Wed., winds peak late Wed. night., conditions should improve by Thu. morning.

Confidence:

- High

For the latest updates, please visit our website and social media outlets:

weather.gov/ilm

facebook.com/NWSWilmingtonNC

@NWSWilmingtonNC

@NWSWilmingtonNC