Clouds end this morning; dry and cool weather is expected this weekend

Overview: A cold front moving off the coast this morning will push clouds offshore. Clear skies, dry air, and cool temperatures are expected this afternoon through the weekend. A second cold front will push through Sunday night.

Impacts: The combination of gusty winds and low relative humidity this afternoon will create an enhanced fire danger across southeastern North Carolina.

Timing/Confidence: The highest fire danger is expected from noon until 6 pm.