Floodwaters creep up in Pender

Rain-soaked grounds hold little chance for relief

After Hurricane Fran

Elderly victim was left behind by her nurses

By Henry Romano

Ruby Vann was only one of thousands of elderly residents in this part of the state to lose their homes and most of their belongings. The elderly victim was left behind by her nurses.

Off-color water still safe

By Mike Komosa

The water is a little off-color now, but officials are it is safe to drink, especially after the heavy rains. The water is safe to drink and should not pose a threat to public health.

16-hour days and pat on back reward enough for volunteers

By Henry Romano

The volunteer is working 16-hour days to help residents and volunteers have done their best. They have worked long hours and are doing a great job. The volunteers have been working long hours and are doing a great job.

Volunteers

Continued from page 28

The volunteers are working hard to help residents. They are doing a great job and are appreciated.

Victims

Continued from page 1A

The victims are still dealing with the aftermath of the hurricane. They are struggling to recover and are in need of help.