SUBJECT: Suspension of the Mayaguez, Puerto Rico (TJMZ) TAF effective September 14, 2020

The following changes have no impact on NOAA Weather Wire Service subscribers

Effective Monday, September 14, 2020 at 1200 Universal Coordinated Time (UTC), NWS San Juan, Puerto Rico, will officially suspend the Mayaguez (TJMZ) Terminal Aerodrome Forecast (TAF) due to no METAR observation available at that airport. Part of keeping a TAF under constant review, per the International Civilian Aviation Organization (ICAO), requires an observation (METAR). Upon resumption of scheduled observations, in compliance with Federal Aviation Administration orders and regulations at the Mayaguez (TJMZ) Airport, the San Juan office will resume normal TAF service.

For questions regarding this suspension, please contact:

Roberto Garcia-Hiraldo, Meteorologist in Charge
