SUBJECT: The Great Lakes Storm Summary (GLS) and Marine
Alert Message (MAW) Will No Longer Be Issued
Effective February 1, 2011

REFER TO: Public Information Statement below:

www.weather.gov/os/notification/pns10cleveland_greatlakes.txt

Effective Tuesday February 1, 2011, 1600 Coordinated Universal Time (UTC) or 1100 am Eastern Standard Time, NWS Weather Forecast Office in Cleveland will no longer issue the GLS and MAW. NWS received no comments on this proposed change during its comment period that began July 26, 2010, and ended September 10, 2010. The Marine Weather Message (MWW) has superseded the requirement for the GLS and MAW. The MWW, MAW and GLS are all event driven, non-scheduled, products.

Table 1 below lists the communication identifiers for the Great Lakes Storm Summary and Marine Alert Message which will be terminated February 1, 2011.

Table 1: Products To Be Terminated February 1, 2011

Issuing WFO	Product Name	WMO heading	AWIPS ID
Cleveland OH	GREAT LAKES STORM SUMMARY	WWUS81 KCLE	GLSCLE
Cleveland OH	MARINE ALERT MESSAGE	FZUS61 KCLE	MAWCLE

Users should delete the WMO and AWIPS headings listed in Table 1 above from their databases on or soon after February 1, 2011, as products will no longer be issued under these headings. Users should access the MWW for equivalent data. Table 2 below lists the Marine Weather Messages issued over the Great Lakes.

Table 2: Marine Weather Messages issued over the Great Lakes.
