SUBJECT: Change of the MADIS Distribution Services effective
Wednesday, January 21, 2015

Starting on Wednesday, January 21, 2015, beginning at 1200
Coordinated Universal Time (UTC), all MADIS distribution services (LDM, web services, and FTP) have new NCO access points.

The MADIS LDM servers at ldm.madis-data.noaa.gov and ldm.madis-data.nws.noaa.gov at GSD and the NWS TOC will be changed to:

ldm.madis.ncep.noaa.gov

The MADIS web services being provided at <https://madis-data.nws.noaa.gov>
<https://madis-data.noaa.gov>

will be replaced with the following services at

<https://madis-data.ncep.noaa.gov>

The MADIS public FTP access points websites: pftp.madis-data.noaa.gov and pftp.madis-data.nws.noaa.gov will be changed to the new NCEP ftp access point:

madis-data.ncep.noaa.gov

The MADIS restricted FTP access is now provided through web services on the NCO MADIS systems. Please contact madis-support@noaa.gov if you need help with this transition.

The MADIS teams at GSD and NCO have tried to ensure all firewall rules are in place for users but need to work with the users to verify that data ingest to user sites is not interrupted during the operational transition.

The current operational instance of MADIS running at GSD and the NWS Telecommunication Operation Center (TOC) are scheduled to be decommissioned starting March 31, 2015, at which time users that have not transitioned will no longer be able to receive MADIS data. Please work with us to help avoid data disruptions to your sites.
