VIII.4.3 DOCUMENTATION NEEDED FOR A FORECAST COMPONENT OPERATION

This Section describes the documentation that should be written for a Forecast Component Operation.

The documentation is in the following parts:

   o technical documentation for Part II that has information about the model or computational procedure used by the Operation – this documentation is needed to understand what the Operation does and how to best apply it o user documentation for Part V that has information needed by the user of the Operation

   o system documentation for Part VIII that has information needed when adding the Operation to a program or when making changes to the Operation