

NWS Philadelphia/Mount Holly

Now accepting 2024 summer student volunteer applications!

Why you should volunteer

- Gain valuable operational meteorology experience by applying skills and knowledge learned in school
- Receive education and training on the operations of a NWS weather forecast office
- Build important communication skills through interaction with our partners
- Opportunity to work on a project with topic of your choice that benefits both you and our office's operations
- Make connections with professionals in your field
- More info:
weather.gov/phi/student_opportunities

Requirements

- College student currently enrolled in a Meteorology, Atmospheric Science, or related major (including graduate school)
- Live within commuting distance of the office (volunteers will remain in person for 2024 with adherence to local COVID-19 guidelines)
- Submit resume, transcript, and cover letter by March 8, 2024 to robert.deal@noaa.gov

When and Where

- Students will volunteer approximately 16-24 hours per week during the course of the summer
- Hours and schedule are flexible based on availability and other commitments (summer jobs, classes, etc.)
- Our office is located at: 732 Woodlane Road, Mount Holly, NJ 08060

This is an unpaid opportunity, but the experience you will gain is invaluable!